1. A revision of [REDACTED] on the Organization's safety program, has recently been sent to you. In addition to other changes, it makes the reporting of accidents mandatory, such reporting having heretofore been optional. One reason for the reporting is the fact that headquarters is obliged to make certain annual reports in connection with the President's campaign to reduce injuries throughout the Government by 30 per cent by 1970. Another important reason for the reporting is the fact that improvements in safety cannot be made unless the causes of accidents are known.

2. Since more than six months of the year will have gone by before you receive the revised regulation, but headquarters is required to report for the entire year, you are requested, so far as you can on the basis of available information, to prepare reports in accordance with the provisions of [REDACTED] on any accidents which have occurred since 1 January, if you have not already reported them, and forward the reports to headquarters through normal channels. If, between 1 January and the time you receive the revised regulation, there have been no accidents which you have not already reported to headquarters, a simple negative report, referring to this book dispatch, is requested. The attached form dispatch may be used for this purpose.

3. Some copies of Form 2652a are attached.
